In Wall street the various markets were again intensely excited and the fluctuations in gold and stocks wide and feverish. Taking the situation at the close and making a comparison of prices at the Stock Exchange with those at the beginning of business, the result shows less brilliantly for the several parties concerned in the desperate speculations which led to the commotion. SECRETARY BOUTWELL, in offering the relief of the resources of the Treasury Department, unlocked the door to the several "corners" and practically disposed o. them for the day. As to the relations of the principal operators and cliques, it is believed that their position as regards the market has not materially changed. Very naturally, the doings of Tuesday left the whole street in a nervous and sensitive state; so that when the Stock Exchange opened this morning there was a general pressure to sell, almost regardless of prices, the bidder at anything near the previous night's closing quotations generally getting the stock without delay. This feeling of anxiety was intensified by the concurrent news by the cable that the directors of

THE BANK OF ENGLAND, at an extra meeting called this forenoon, had raised the minimum of the discount rate to 4 per cent, as against 3½ per cent, the previous rate, a haste to alter the figure which was interpreted to mean a pretty active condition of the money market on the other side, and might be supplemented by a further advance at the regular weekly meeting of the directors on Thursday morning. This procedure of the Bank of England was already a foregone conclusion cent on Mouday last, and the anticipation of it depressed our bonds in London on that day, giving the earlier impulse to the recent rise in our gold market, a fortuitous conjuncture of events which doubt-THE ZEAL OF THE CLIQUE now operating for an advance in gold and a fall in the stock market. The alarm occasioned by this news had the effect of making the lowest prices of the day in stocks, for within the first half hour of business it was rumored that the gold clique had made a settlement with the veteran Daniel Drew. and the whole market became strong at once. In so confused a mass of rumors and reports as prevalled during the day it was diment to get anything like a consistent statement of THE REAL SITUATION, but there is little doubt that the several parties stand in practically the same relation to each other as they did at the close of business on Tuesday afternoon. It is possible that Mr. Drew has parted with a great deal of his Erie, for which he found a ready market, with a view to helping those of his brokers who are holding his other favorite stocks. He found it a profitiess operation to pay a haif per cent for the carrying of his Canton and Wabash in order to gratify his desire to press the "corner" in Erie. Indeed, Mr. Drew's participation in the game was doubtless a sudden thought, and his retirement may be as speedy a conclusion. "Is this a free fight ?" inquired the gentleman out West after a few minutes of

UNPLEASANT EXPERIENCE in the combat into which he had entered on the assurance already that it was. Being told again that it was, he exerted his prerogative of free will and withdrew. While all this is the purest speculation of the street as to Mr. Drew's doings, it is certain that the pool with which he took part have not given up their intention of maintaining the "corner" in Erie, and threats are made that the stock will be kept as scarce as ever. Whatever the controlling power to-day, Erie was in urgent demand, and was worth at one time as much as 1% per cent, the price rising to 53%, cash. This was an extreme and an exceptional rate, and gradually relaxed until, at the close, the stock was OFFERED AT "FLAT" or free of interest upon the currency collateral advanced against it. This was, in fact, the culmination of the Erie "corner" for to day, whatever may be done in the future upon a renewal of the effort to continue the speculation. The next principal incident of the day, the clew that unravelled the maze of speculation and relaxed the money market. was the purchase from the street by the Secretary of the Treasury of

for which over three and a quarter millions of currency was exchanged. It is true that only $1,330,000 of the bonds were sent in for cash to-day, but the tive as if the whole sum had come forth. The total offerings of bonds were about four and three-quarter millions at 110.87 to 112.75. The accepted lots were obtained at 110.87 a 111.75. Meantime money had opened as nearly as might be at an eighth per cent for the day's use and had hardened to a quarter per cent, equivalent to about 90 PER CENT PER ANNUM. But the anticipation of a large acceptance of bonds at the Sub-Treasury caused a gradual relaxation, and the eventual appearance of the Treasury money in the street seeking employment for the night caused a decline in the interest rate to 6 per cent before three o'clock, the quotation for money closing 6 a 7 per cent, and no inquiry existing after banking hours save such as came from some few 10:45 A. parties who had made an error or oversight in the lation of their balances. For MERCANTILE PAPER

there is as yet no reliable quotation, owing to the condition of the call loan market. Foreign ex-change continued unsettled, although nominally quoted 198 for prime sixty day and 100 for sight sterling bills, the concessions from these rates fo cash transactions being in direct proportion to th rates for the use of gold in the loan market. Thus prime sixty day sterling sold at one time at as low as 107, and later in the day was quoted 107% a 107%, when the rate for the use of gold had changed by the corresponding one-half per cent. The ex-porting merchants have been throughout the past two days unhappy spectators of the doings in Wall street, their interests having suffered most acutely

THE GOLD "CORNER." The gold market opened at 114%, but iell of gradually to 114, with a simultaneous disclosure of weakness on the part of the clique, who found the demand for cash gold supplied from some outside and mysterious source. They had meantime pu the borrowing rate up to as high as 1 per cent for the day, or, in other words, compelled some of the "shorts" to pay as much as $100 currency for the use of each $10,000 gold requisite to their deliveries. The highest quotation on

was only % per cent, owing to a rule of the Board which forbids the recording of a transaction after others have gone upon the register. From this extreme there was a relaxation to "flat" or no interest, and, in an exceptional instance, a small consideration was paid for carrying. The clique had meantime put gold back to 114%, but it again declined this time to 113% and closed finally at 114. The discomiture of the chaue in their operations in money and gold was only partially offset by the easier terms on which they procured their Erie The story was circulated at the close that they did to-merrow, for the reason, may be, that they wish Mr. Boutwell to know how much the mercantile interest is really in need of gold, and how much o the "short" interest in the market is of a purely speculative character. On the other hand, it was conjectured that by keeping away from the Sub-Treasury they would reduce the amount of bids, and thus not only encourage the short interest to persevere in the speculation for a decline, but draw a less amount of gold into the street. Whateve their real design, they appear to have determined at a late hour to-day to renew their efforts to "corner" both gold and money, and with this view and gold. Two of the leading members of the clique engaged a carriage this afternoon and between two and three o'clock went around to the banks and demanded and obtained greenbacks for the certified checks which had come to them in th way of business and which represented the cast capital of the pool. From the Bank of the State the drew out about $900,000 in greenbacks and carrie the notes away with them. At one bank they presented a check for gold, and, being requested t call again for it in a little while, said it would b all the same to them if the bank would keep the GOLD ON DEPOSIT against the check. It is not known what amoun was thus locked up in greenbacks and coin, but the action of the clique was rumored about the street and had the effect of depressing the stock market in the closing dealings of the day and making a smart reaction from the strength which prevalled upon the easy termination of the rates for money. The wide ductuations of the past two days have occasioned the suspension of two firms-viz., Farnham, Gilbert & Co., of Wall street, and How ard, Ivins & Co., of Nassau street. They were both "long" of stocks and were unable to follow the de cline in the market.

THE VANDERBILT POOL supported their favorite stocks throughout the worst of the contest, and Union Pacific was ever advanced to 40, while C. C. and I. C. was lifted back to 36%, a "corner" in the former if not in the latte being promised as among the possibilities of the future. The advance in Union Pacific was assisted by a rumor that negotiations are pending for its consolidation with the Central Pacific Railroad. In the decline this morning Harlem sold at 109%, Nev Jersey Central at 1021/4 and Panama at 126. In Philadelphia Reading broke to 100%, recovered to 112 and closed at 111%. The Second Avenue Rai road Company have declared a quarterly dividend of $2 a share, payable October 10, the transfers

GOVERNMENTS FEVERISH, CLOSING STRONG The government bond market was feverish and during the early boards weak, with a decline of 34 a 1 per cent in prices, taking the range of the seve ral gold and currency issues. The 67's sold at 112's chase of three millions of bonds by the Treasur and the relaxation in money at the close there wa a sudden rebound, and prices not only recovered a they had lost, but gained a trifle besides. THE WALL STREET "CORNERS."

The Excitement on the "Street" Yesterday, and What It Amounted To-The "Corners" and the Opinion of Outsiders on the Chances of the Cornerites.

The bulls and bears had a high old time of it yesterday in Wall street. The "corners" in the stock and gold markets which had made many of them pass a rather uncomfortable night of it on Tuesday were, it is true, not as dangerous looking as they might have been had several "ifs" and "ands" got as well into play, in the financial phrase-making of the street, as the Tuesday night outlook gave token they would; but there was an unmistakable feeling of uncasiness on all sides, and even a stranger, unused to the everyday excitement and hubbub of the Mammon worshippers' temple on Broad street, could not have failed to notice that there was a screw loose somewhere in THE MACHINERY OF THE SPECULATORS.

The money article which appeared in the Herald yesterday, too, besides putting the unsophisticated on their guard against the storm that threatened to swamp every small boat that dared to venture out too far from shore, had given "outsiders" a peep behind the scenes and a good view of the real cause of the stringency in the money market, and thus enabled them to fight shy of shoals so long as the skies looked threatening. Indeed, the usual frequenters of the street, the professional gamesters as well as the small fry who are always on hand to do a little business on their own on hand to do a little business on their own account whenever the "regulars" are in a snari and there is promise of a scramble for spoils among the big fellows in the "corners," seemed yesterday to have risen at a much earlier hour than usual. Long before the usual time for the opening of ousiness many of the operators, looking rather sleepy and fagged out, put in an appearance at their offices, and not a few janitors, who depend upon the "regularity" of their employers to enjoy an extra hour's nap in the employers to enjoy an extra hour's nap in the morning, were yet sweetly sleeping off the effects of the poteen of the night previous. As the day employers to enjoy an extra nour's nap in sum orning, were yet sweetly sleeping off the effects of the poteen of the night previous. As the day wore on the field of the street became more and more apparent, and all sorts of rumors were set aftoat to affect the appearance of things. There were those, indeed, who anticipated a "pawn" before the day was over, and began taking in sail accordingly. What lent additional fuel to the excitement was the announcement during the afterneon of the failure of two firms on account of the fail in the stock market. About two o'clock the vicinity of the Stock Exchange was crowded by expectants of the "outside" life, who had come to see and hear all that could be seen and heard, and enjoy, after the fashion of all curiosity-seeking crowds, the tortures and sufferings of the miserables who might go under if there was a crash in the market. Of course the operations of old man Drew and Henry Smith were the chief t pic of conversation, and, in fact, upon them, in the opinion of the manf, hinged the fate of Wall street operations for a few days at least. Speculation was rife as to which party would come out ahead, and people who had nothing to fear or hope for, no matter what the upshot of the "corners" might be in the long run, made their little bets as freely about the matter as though they were simply wagering on

A THERD RATE HORSE RACE.

The odds seemed to be in favor of Smith, but the friends of the "old man" appeared to be confident that he would come out ahead in the end, despite every dodge the other side could resort to. When it became rumored about, late in the afternoon, that a compromise had been made by the men at the wheel in the corner boats, the excitement on the street diminished considerably. It was the belief of many operators at the close of business on the street that the lull which followed the sort of half scare of the morning would turn out to-morrow to be a quiet forerunner of the field of the morning would turn out to-morrow to be a quiet forerunner of the l

A SENSATION SPOILED.

Funeral Delayed-Unfounded Suspicion. Quite an excitement was occasioned yesterday afternoon by the detention of a funeral procession which was about passing over the Houston street peared that Miss Isabella Hewly, a lady in advanced years, who had been an inmate of the Old Lady's sick and died at the house of Mr. A. Stewart, 219 West 125th street. The attending physician gave s sick and died at the house of Mr. A. Stewart, 21s West 125th street. The attending physician gave s certificate of death, on which the Board of Health granted a burial permit, and the inneral was announced for yesterday afternoon. In the mean time the key. Charles B. Smyth, pastor of the American Presbyterian church, called at the Board of Health with some complimentary resolutions touching the life and character of Miss. Hewly, who mad been a member of his church, and at the same time expressing some doubts as to the cause of her death, also desiring a delay of the foneral till the Coroner could make an investigation. The reverend doctor was referred to the City Hall, and made known his business to Coroner Young, who with his usual promptitude took the matter in charge, and in company of Dr. Vandewater, of the Centre Street Hospital, proceeded to an undertaker's, in the Bowery, where the body had been deposited. Dr. Vandewater, in examining the body, found that death had resulted from entoritis and cystic degeneration of both kidneys, with large, fatty liver. There was not the least suspicious circumstance connected with Miss Hewy's death, and the unnecessary delay and expense incurred by the relatives and friends of deceased is due to the unwassantable interference of persons whe seemed to have no concern in the matter whatever. Owing to the delay caused by Coroner Young's official investigation it was found necessary to position. owing to the damy cased by coroller roung a on-terior control to the control of the control of
